

MAPLE QUAYS: CANADA WATER

Barratt Homes East London

CASE STUDY

Canada Water is located on the south bank of the Thames between Greenwich and Shad Thames. It is currently in the midst of a phenomenal regeneration programme.

The new master plan is focused on creating a vibrant canal side community of 2,000 new homes, a large proportion of which are being built by preferred developer partner, Barratt Homes.

Their latest scheme, Maple Quays, occupies a prime position in the Canada Water footprint, sitting just a 30 second walk from Canada Water Underground station.

The scheme is being built and released in phases, with the latest building, Fairmont House, due for launch at the end of July 2010.

Maple Quays boasts cutting-edge urban architecture combined with modern style. Residents can enjoy living spaces that are flexible and open-plan, a concierge service and now a state-of-the-art gymnasium, designed and fitted out by motive8.

Due to its substantial floor plate, the gym offers a comprehensive and spacious workout environment. A large, mirrored stretching area allows residents to warm up and cool down in comfort whilst a full range of cardio equipment caters for all levels of fitness including treadmills, upright and recumbent bikes, Concept2 rowers and x-trainers.

This fantastic space also enabled the supply of a blend of Life Fitness Signature and Circuit Series strength equipment, providing both amateur and more accustomed gym users with maximum choice and flexibility.
